More Pressure Required

Less Pressure Required

The fade test selected for our comparison is the ECE R13 test used to Type approve new OE vehicle braking systems. The fade behaviour of OEC1/1 & OEC2 are similar to each other on this test with only relatively small changes in brake pressure being required to maintain the required deceleration throughout the 20 stop test.

For the majority of the test Juratek products fit within the overall envelope of fade performance displayed by the range of principal OE products tested.
